His home was at No. 1491 Missouri avenue, and he became acquainted with Miss Reed, who lives at No. 1495 Missouri avenue. He visited her often and one night met Charles Carroll there. Carroll had also visited often at her home. Carroll and Meddrum recognized each other and Carroll, so Meidrum says, promised not to reveal his whereabouts.

The arrest of Meidrum came as a surprise, but Meidrum asserts positively that Carroll furnished the information because he was jealous of him.

Miss Reed did not know what to make of the whole affair. She said that she did not know that Meidrum had been a decerter, but that if he was she thought it was a mean trick for anyone to inform or him.

Carroll, on his part, is vehement in his Carroll, on his part, is vehement in his dentals that he had anything to do with furnishing the information which led to Meldrum's arrest.
